CAREGIVER

DEMENTIA CARE

At Wellcare Australia

Dementia is a complex syndrome that significantly impacts an individual's cognitive abilities, often extending beyond the normal effects of aging. For families, caring for a loved one with dementia can be emotionally taxing due to the diagnosis's nature. Additionally, early admission to an aged care facility or nursing home before the age of 65 can strip away an individual's independence to live within their community.

At Wellcare Australia, our dementia care services play a crucial role in supporting those diagnosed with dementia. Our multidisciplinary team, consisting of social workers, nurses, behaviors support expertise and experienced community aged care workers, collaborates closely with families and care teams. Together, we create dementia-friendly supported accommodations tailored to the individual's needs and preferences, allowing them to continue living within their chosen community.

OUR FACILITIES

For dementia care

Environment plays a vital role in the life of an individual diagnosed with dementia. A disoriented environment can create confusion, leading to challenging behaviour. Therefore, Wellcare Australia works closely with the family, carers and support team of the participant to build the best suitable home environment for the participant. By tailoring the home environment to each participant's unique needs, we aim to enhance their quality of life while managing dementia-related challenges.

THE SUPPORTS

The staff pool of the dementia care wing at Wellcare brings a wealth of diverse work experience from aged care and nursing facilities. Wellcare Australia bridges this practical experience with theoretical knowledge by organizing training sessions through accredited providers who specialize in dementia care. These trainings empower staff to deliver the highest quality support and care throughout the entire dementia care journey for participants.

To maintain service delivery quality, support staff diligently follow the integrated and comprehensive care plan developed by Wellcare Australia's core multidisciplinary team. This team collaborates with information and resources from the care team, family members, and carers. Additionally, ongoing assessments ensure that the level of care provided is continuously monitored and adjusted as needed.
